

Membership Upgrades

ISTE is announcing several important changes to Standard ISTE membership benefits, which are effective October 1, 2007. Changes include:

- Choice of any or all Special Interest Groups with the flexibility to add or change them at any time
- 30% savings on ISTE books, which is up from 10%
- More than 50% discount for ISTE webinars; 15 professional development opportunities are scheduled for 2007–08
- More social networking opportunities through Second Life, LinkedIn, Facebook, and MySpace
- A new members-only section of the ISTE Web site and the ability to navigate without logging in each time you want to access member content in addition to more options for managing your e-mail list subscriptions and updating your member profile
- Standard members can now add peer-reviewed research journals to their memberships at significantly reduced member prices. The Journal of Research on Technology in Education (JRTE) is $54; the Journal of Computing in Teacher Education (JCTE), previously available only to SIGTE members, is $32 and available to all members.
- Archives of all ISTE Webinars are now available for free to All-Inclusive members.

Look for additional options and upgrades in the year ahead. Direct any questions about these changes to Member Services at 1.800.336.5191 or iste@iste.org, or visit:

New Webinar Series

ISTE's Professional Development Services will present two Webinar Series for 2007–2008. The Innovative Educators' Express (IEE) explores emerging technologies and strategies for integrating technology into curriculum/classroom activities. The Technology in Practice (TIP) Webinar series will focus on interactive online tools.

Presenters are nationally recognized ed tech innovators, highly rated NECC presenters, ISTE authors, and other thought leaders. Visit <http://www.iste.org/webinars> to learn more.

Participate in NETS Fall Forums

Innovation and creativity top the list of ISTE's recently revised NETS for Students. Now ISTE is embarking on the next phase of the NETS Refresh project by revising the NETS for Teachers (NETS•T). ISTE members and others have several opportunities to contribute to the discussion by participating in an online survey (<http://www.iste.org/nets-survey>) or registering for a NETS Refresh Forum held in conjunction with several upcoming ed tech conferences. Visit <http://www.iste.org/nets-refresh> for up-to-date information about NETS Refresh Forums and other ways to participate in the NETS Refresh project.
